

Guidelines on Chapter 5: Degrees and Certificates

Additional information regarding Section 5-6 Overlapping academic content

Overlapping is assessed based on competence, learning outcomes and the scope of the courses that are considered identical.

Any academic overlap is defined through the comparison of academic content, work methods, forms of assessment, syllabi and overall learning outcomes of some of the course content that is considered a potential overlap. The degree of an academic overlap is concluded based on a full assessment of the factors when, for example, similar academic content with dissimilar overall final competence due to different work methods and forms of assessment shall produce a less defined academic overlap than when both content and work methods, and thus the expected final competence, is considered a direct overlap.
